REDS IN A ROW

A DIVERGENCE of policy in the Free World is a good thing for the Communists. Similarly, a quarrel between Russia and China is an obvious advantage to the West.

But we in the Free World are sensible enough not to allow our differences to lead to a split in the alliance, and we would be wise to assume that the same sentiment prevails in the opposite camp.

Therefore the reports allegedly emanating from Moscow embassy sources and other people supply us daily in the know of a serious split in the Red ranks should not be hailed as portending an imminent break in the Communist front.

Similar reports have been appearing at intervals for a long time now. They make a "good story," and that is about all that can be said for them.

Not trivial

IT is true that the dispute — there is a dispute — is not a trivial one. It concerns the correct interpretation of Communist doctrine, and among those closed minds there can be nothing more serious.

The Chinese, still in the first phase of Marxist development, stick to Lenin's theory that war with Capitalism is inevitable.

They do not fear a nuclear conflict. Theirs is still largely a primitive society, depending more on muscles than machines, and if they lost even two-thirds of their people, they would still have 200,000,000 left.

Mr Khrushchev has abandoned this part of the Leninist theory, which he says is out of date. He declares that Imperialist wars are no longer inevitable, because Communism will triumph without them.

He speaks as the head of a vast industrialized economy which would suffer almost as much from a nuclear holocaust as would the closely integrated societies of the West.

Long time

THE dissension has been rumbling for a long time, and it will probably rumble for a still longer time yet, but to imagine that this means an open break between the two largest Communist nations is pure wishful thinking, and wishful thinking will only do the cause of the Free World more harm than good.

Russia is still the leader of the Communist alliance. This leadership has been acknowledged in Peking.

And Mr Khrushchev, though there is a body of Soviet opinion which supports the Leninist point of view, is still very much the master of Soviet Russia.

The chances are that Russia and China will fall out some day. But that day will probably not come until China becomes a powerful industrial nation. And that will not be until the 21st century.

'Dangerous, and is not what it purports to be' ELECTRICITY PROPOSAL FLAYED

Outspoken opinions expressed

THERE ARE hidden dangers in the scheme proposed by the two local power companies as an alternative to nationalisation. This is the general consensus revealed today by a China Mail survey of public opinion on the agreement suggested by the Hongkong Electric Co Ltd and the China Light and Power Co Ltd.

The companies proposed an agreement between the Government and themselves whereby the two companies will be entitled to a maximum profit margin of 4.7 cents per unit of electricity sold.

Retention

Of the margin, 2.5 cents per unit is to be marked for dividends and 2.2 cents for retention in the business.

Mr Charles Barber, who represented the motion pictures industry at the public hearings on the Electricity Commission, said this morning "the offer of the two companies is just about what I would have expected."

"In view of its wide divergence from the report of the Electricity Commission, it would be scandalous, in my opinion, to accept the proposal without further public hearings."

"My feeling is that the proposal has many hidden dangers and it is not what it purports to be."

Another local resident who has represented an important industry at the public hearings objected to two points in the proposal.

Guaranteed

"It seems to guarantee the companies their dividends. On rough calculations, the dividends they are attempting to have guaranteed are higher than that which has been declared."

"The compulsory provision for retention of a portion of the profits in business would be tantamount to shifting the burden of capitalisation from the shareholder to the consumer."

"For what is retained in business will eventually be capitalised and issued to shareholders."

Mr Hilton Chao-Keen of the Civic Association had many queries about the scheme:

"In principle," he said, "it is a good thing that the two electric companies have new pull forward for Government consideration a scheme that is an alternative to nationalisation."

"Essentially, the public is interested in whether or not the new scheme put forward will mean reduction—a sizable reduction—at that—of electricity charges."

"With this scheme in effect give maximum protection to the public from any arbitrary and unreasonable increases in the future."

"Will it guarantee an efficient, abundant supply of electricity at the lowest rate possible consistent with public interest?"

"I think that Government should now invite comments from the public and, in particular, from those groups and individuals that participated in the Electricity Supply Commission hearings."

"Until that is done, no final decision on this question should be made by Government."

An authority on the local Stock Exchange said: "It would seem that the scheme may help the companies on taking more and more money as capital from the consumers."

AGROUND

Traverso City, Dec. 1. Coast Guardsmen today made contact with the storm-tattered Siberian freighter Francesco Morazza aground in Lake Michigan.

The Greek skipper's wife, Mrs Eduarda Tavizzi, who is an expectant mother, was taken from the stricken ship. The Captain, and 12 crewmen remained aboard.—AP.

A MAN IN SPACE NEXT PROBABLE STEP BY SOVIET SCIENTISTS

London, Dec. 1. Professor Bernard Lovell, Director of the Jodrell Bank observatory, said tonight that the launching of the new Soviet Space Ship III satellite indicated that the Soviet Union was now capable of "putting a man into space."

Commenting on the launching, Professor Lovell said:

"This is a further indication that the Russians have the capability of putting a man into space, but they seem to be making sure with dogs before risking human lives."

Meanwhile, the British Broadcasting Corporation announced that the new satellite was circling the earth every 88 minutes.

A BBC station at Tatsfield, Kent, had monitored radio signals from the satellite at 19,055 kilocycles at every passage of the space ship, the announcement said.

In Moscow, the Soviet Prime Minister, Mr Khrushchev, told reporters that the latest launching of a Noah's Ark space ship was "a great victory towards man's flight in space."

WALKED OVER

He had walked over to the place where reporters were standing during a reception to night for Prince Norodom Sihanouk, of Cambodia.

One reporter asked him whether the animals in the space ship would be returned to earth.

Grinning, Mr Khrushchev shrugged and said: "Probably, but the scientists know better than I do. I have not talked with anyone about it."

He agreed that the weight of 4½ tons was very great.

"It's big enough for a man to have his dinner inside," he said.

A Soviet economic expert, Dmitry Martynov, told tonight the space ship was not expected to remain in space for "any considerable time."—UPI and Reuters.

Typhoon

Rome, Dec. 1. Typhoon Ophelia changed course today and headed across the Pacific in a direction that would spare Manila the full force of the 161-mile-per-hour winds.

Previous reports had placed the storm east of Manila moving due west on the Philippines capital.

Latest reports placed the storm 645 miles east of Manila

but moving west northwest instead of due west.—UPI and Reuters.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

New York, Dec. 1. Importers of Russian perfumes which they plan to place on the American market soon disclosed today that they have a problem.

Two of the Soviet scents are named "Red Moscow" and "Sputnik."

The importers believe they would sell better under different names, but they say the Russians refuse to change the names.

The Russians have agreed to call the third perfume "Treasure Chest" instead of "Black Casket."—AP.

LABOUR MEMBER'S QUERY IN COMMONS

EQUAL PAY FOR HK WOMEN DEMAND

London, Dec. 1. Mr Iain Macleod, the Colonial Secretary, said today he was sure progress would continue in Hongkong towards giving women equal pay with men in the public service.

He was replying to questions in the House of Commons by Mrs Barbara Castle, a Labour Member.

Mrs Castle asked why it was not proposed to extend the principle of equal pay, recently introduced for certain women medical officers in Hongkong, to women teachers and other women civil servants in employment of the Hongkong Government.

Conclusions

Mr Macleod replied: "On January 1, 1960, 6,000 women were employed in Government service. Twelve, who are medical officers, are receiving equal pay.

"The policies of the Hongkong Government are based on conclusions and recommendations of last year's Salaries Commission which narrowed the gap between men and women's salaries."

Mrs Castle asked if Mr Macleod was aware that the Salaries Commission was composed exclusively of men. Women were not invited or invited the old fashioned way of pointing an all-male committee for establishing there was no case for giving women equal pay with men.

She asked if the Colonial Secretary was aware that women getting equal pay "bitterly resented" this discrimination, and would he intervene to get equal pay for women in Hongkong.

Mr Macleod replied: "I cannot advise the Governor to disregard the report of the Salaries Commission."

Mr Macleod said that in this and that country it had been a long and slow process towards equal pay.

"I am sure progress will continue in Hongkong," he said.—Reuters.

BRUSSELS SHOCK

Brussels, Dec. 1. A commercial source here estimated the value of Belgian assets in Egypt at about 150 million Belgian francs (about $1,070,000).

The Cairo move took observers here by surprise. Some said they were unable, in view of the Congo independence, to understand any link between the seizure and the Congolese call for the withdrawal of the United Arab Republic embassy staff in the Congo.—Reuters.

Nasser had issued a decree nationalising the Cairo Electric Railways and Helipolis (Oasis) Company and terminating the concession granted by the Egyptian Government to Mr Edouard Empain.

A decree

"The President also issued a decree nationalising the bank, a decree placing the Egyptian Electricity Company under sequestration, and a decree placing the Cairo Tramways Utility under sequestration," it added.

Earlier, Mr Abdel Kader Hafiz, UAR Minister of State for Information, commenting on the Congolese breach with the UAR said in an official statement that his Government had established contacts in the last few days to agree on "decisive measures against the conspiracies of the imperialists" in the Congo.

The statement said: "The UAR Government has established contacts in the last few days with countries supporting liberty and slugging against imperialism to take decisive measures to combat the conspiracies of the imperialists."

Venezuelan troops take full control

MOBUTU ARRESTS LUMUMBA'S FAMILY

Leopoldville, Dec. 1. Five members of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba's family have been arrested in the town of Kikwit, 600 kilometres east of Leopoldville, on orders of Col. Mobutu, Congolese sources stated here today.

Joseph Okito as President of the Senate and a fervent supporter, had also been arrested at Kikwit, with two other members of Parliament, the sources said.

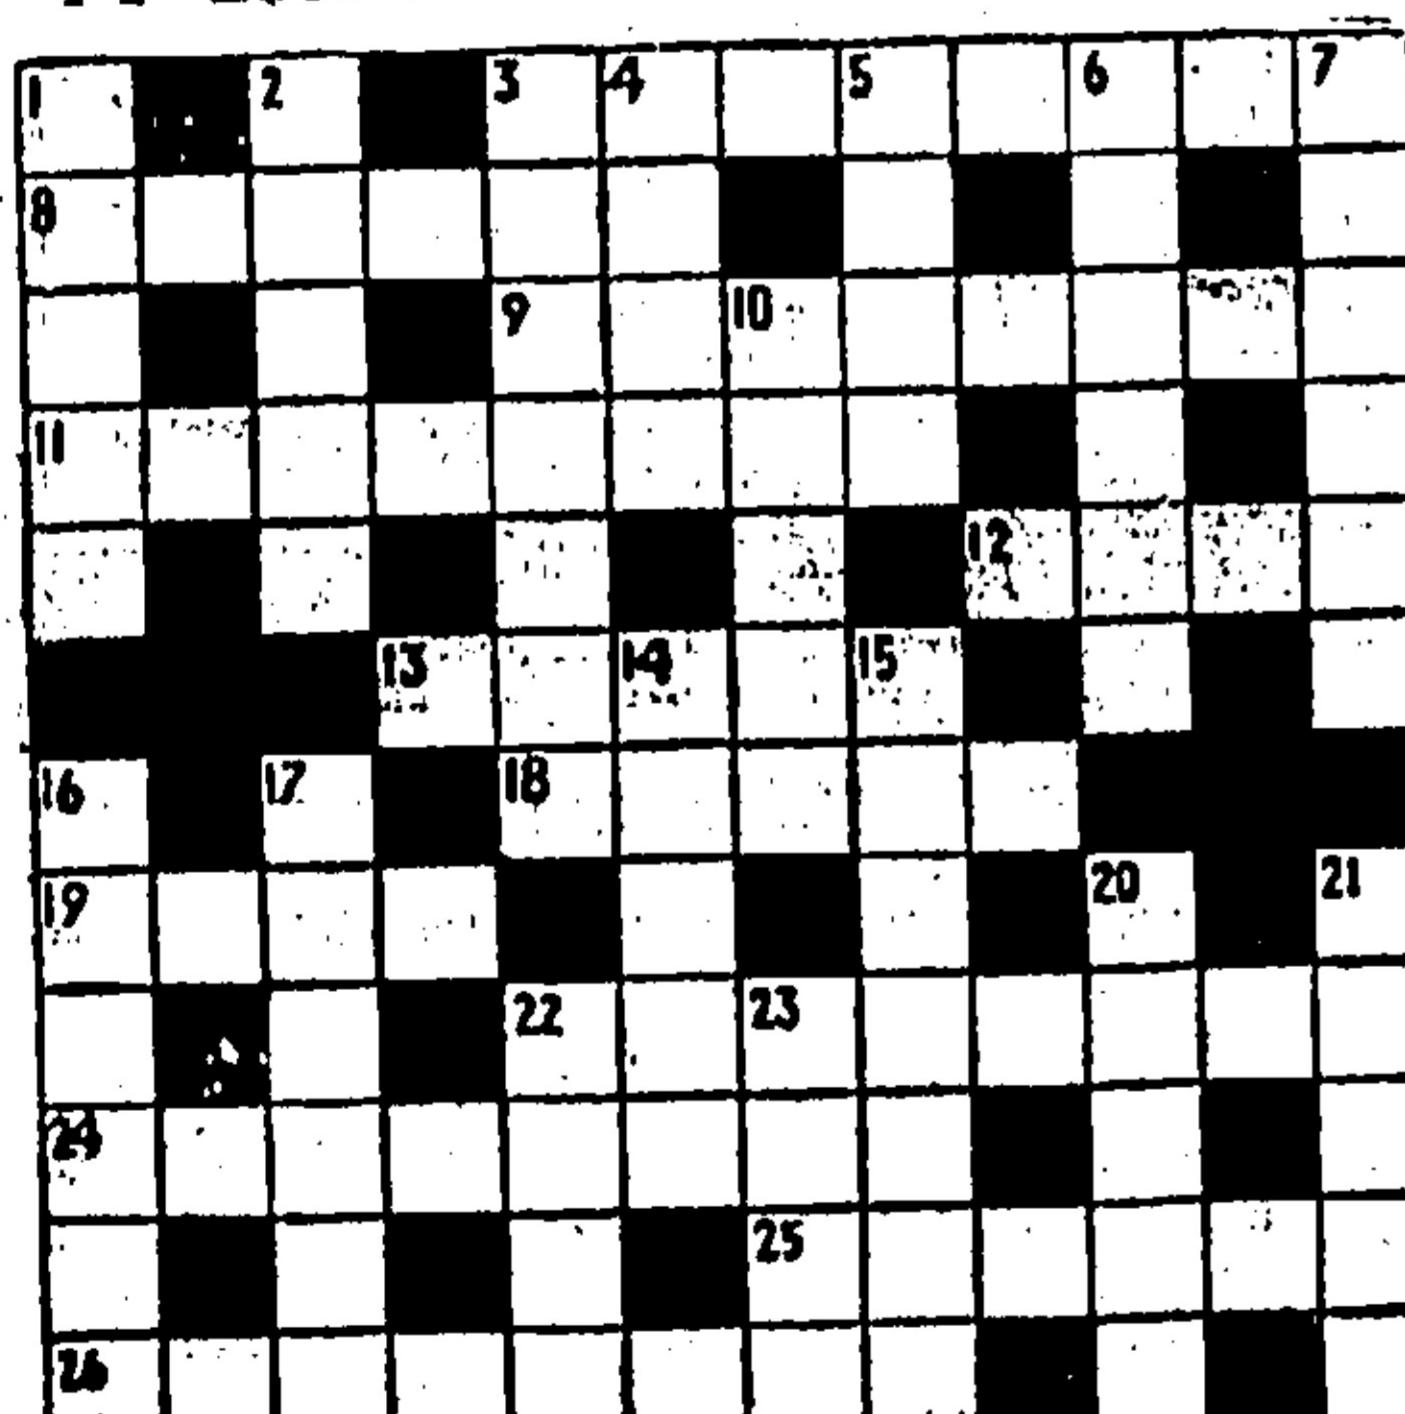

Meanwhile Lumumba himself, who escaped from Leopoldville last Sunday night, was believed to be continuing his long and difficult drive to Stanleyville, capital of the Eastern Province and a Lumumba stronghold.

FUGITIVE

Far from fleeing as a fugitive, Lumumba was stopping in the villages, particularly in the Kitaw region, to address the inhabitants, informed sources said. He was telling them that he had left Leopoldville to create "a real national and independent government."

He was known to be accompanied by close supporters including several ministers of his deposed government, and it was believed he was being escorted by a small group of soldiers—AFP.

Rumanian writer renounces top French award

Paris, Dec. 1. Vintila Horia, 47-year-old Rumanian writer whose novel "Dieu Est Né En Exil" ("God Was Born In Exile") was awarded this year's Goncourt Prize—France's leading prize for a novel—today renounced the award.

A CRISIS IS ENDED

Lucknow, India, Dec. 1. The Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru today ended a two-month political crisis in his home state of Uttar Pradesh when local Congress Party legislators bowed to his wishes and elected a new chief minister.

The legislature elected Mr. Chandra Bhushan Gupta, 58, as its leader after prolonged party haggling.

The crisis erupted because of rivalry between the State Congress committee, the central party executive, and the Congress Party in the Legislative Assembly which is elected by voters.

(Similar rivalry exists in other states also and the National Congress Party fears local fending of this kind may lose its votes in the general elections due in 1962).—Reuters.

Police searched the headquarters of the Venezuelan Communist Party and seized several placards, posters and publications allegedly "encouraging to subversive activities."

Police failed however in their bid to seize the Party's archives and other "incriminating" documents, which were believed to have been moved away by Party leaders shortly before the search.—AFP.

Negroes can be given white skin in certain cases

Washington, Dec. 1.

A skin specialist said today that certain individual Negroes who have abnormally pigmented skin containing white blotches can be given "quite natural" all-white skin by means of drug treatment.

Dr Robert Stolar of Georgetown University reported he has had some degree of success in 18 of 300 cases treated in that way over the past 10 years, and in most of the 10 the natural all-white appearance has been achieved.

He stressed that the technique offers no possibility of converting normal Negro skin into white except for a very temporary period.

In a report to the American Medical Association's annual meeting, amplified in an interview, the doctor said he and his associates have also treated some 200 white people for the same abnormal skin condition which is manifested by a bizarre pattern of brown skin with whitish blotches."

REPIGMENTATION

In the cases of the white people, however, the skin was repigmented. Instead of depigmenting as in the case of the Negroes so that the white patients acquired a deep tan.

Stolar said the abnormal skin condition in both races is known as "vitiligo" and results from an inability of one of the body's basic amino acids called tyrosine to be properly converted into melanin, the chemical which normally produces pigmentation of skin.

Cause of this body chemistry abnormality is as yet unknown, he said.

Two different drugs are used, depending upon whether depigmentation or repigmentation is desired. They are applied in the form of ointments over a period of years.

The depigmentation drug is called "mono-benzyl ether of hydroquinone." The one for repigmentation is "8-methoxy psoralen." Use of the latter is accompanied by ultraviolet radiation, the combination producing the tan for whites.

He said none of the 18 Negroes considered as successful in the drug treatment "look quite natural white."

He said some of them requested that their hair be lightened also but "we have not been able to depigment the hair."—UPI.

Bangkok, Dec. 1. About 100 cases of cholera were reported today in the city and authorities have declared an emergency. About 500 miles from Bangkok, a still burning dragon's fire "three weeks ago" that set 3,000 houses afire.—UPI.

Paris, Dec. 1.

Vintila Horia, 47-year-old Rumanian writer whose novel "Dieu Est Né En Exil" ("God Was Born In Exile") was awarded this year's Goncourt Prize—France's leading prize for a novel—today renounced the award.

Since being named winner of the award on November 21, Horia has been attacked as "anti-Semitic and pro-Hitler."

In a letter to the president of the Goncourt Jury, Horia said:

"I do not want to be a cause of dissension in the country which has made me welcome."

FASCIST

The storm over Horia broke this week after the Communist daily newspaper "L'Humanité" alleged he had been a member before and during the Second World War of the Fascist Iron Guard Party in Rumania.

"L'Humanité" reproduced what it claimed were articles Horia wrote between 1935 and 1941 describing Mussolini as "the new heavenly star planting the liberating standard of Fascism in the heart of Europe."

Hitter, one article said, was "the leading political figure of modern times" and Albert Einstein was described as a "dirty Jew."

DENIAL

Horia denied he had ever been a member of the Iron Guard.

In a statement, he said he was a "frightful intellectual" and added: "I was dismissed from my official functions as diplomat in 1940 and I was sent to a concentration camp by the Nazis in 1944."

The Goncourt Prize is worth only 50 new francs (about £3 10s) in cash but the publicity surrounding its award is calculated to guarantee the author sales of about 175,000 copies and royalties of between 150,000 and 200,000 new francs (between £11,000 and £14,000).—Reuters.

NIXON TO JOIN LAW FIRM

Los Angeles, Dec. 1.

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's campaign manager said today that Mr. Nixon will join a Los Angeles law firm after he leaves office.

Mr. Nixon, defeated Republican Presidential candidate, will disclose the name of the firm after the Christmas holidays, Mr. Robert Finch told a news conference.

He said the Vice-President will return to California after the January 20 Presidential inauguration.—UPI.

Two different drugs are used, depending upon whether depigmentation or repigmentation is desired. They are applied in the form of ointments over a period of years.

The depigmentation drug is called "mono-benzyl ether of hydroquinone." The one for repigmentation is "8-methoxy psoralen."

Use of the latter is accompanied by ultraviolet radiation, the combination producing the tan for whites.

He said some of them requested that their hair be lightened also but "we have not been able to depigment the hair."—UPI.

KENNEDY'S FIRST CABINET APPOINTMENT

Washington, Dec. 1. Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut was today named by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in his new Cabinet.

Mr. Kennedy announced his first Cabinet appointment six hours after he disclosed that he had picked Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan as Assistant Secretary of State for Africa.

CLOSEST

With the President-elect obviously near final decisions on a number of key posts, press secretary Mr. Pierre Salinger said Mr. Kennedy would announce a third appointment tomorrow.

Mr. Kennedy made the announcement from the doorstep of his Georgetown home with Mr. Ribicoff standing beside him. Both were warmly received.

Mr. Ribicoff, now serving his second term as Governor, was one of Mr. Kennedy's earliest backers for the Democratic Presidential nomination. He served as Mr. Kennedy's floor manager at the National Convention and was one of the President-elect's closest campaign advisers.

He also placed Mr. Kennedy's name in nomination for Vice-President at the 1956 convention.

A one-time newsboy in his hometown of New Britain, Mr. Ribicoff got his start in politics in 1938 when he was elected a state representative.

In announcing Mr. Ribicoff's appointment, Mr. Kennedy said the Governor's new assignment will involve "some of the most challenging and significant activities and programmes of the years to come."—UPI.

U.S. applies travel law to aliens

Washington, Dec. 1.

The State Department today banned aliens living in the U.S. on a permanent basis from travelling to certain Communist areas of the world.

The State Department said the regulations "prohibit the departure of permanent resident aliens who desire to travel to those countries of which American citizens are not permitted to travel."

Penalties

It noted that penalties for violating such immigration regulations range up to a $5,000 fine or five years in prison. In some cases, property in the United States may be declared forfeit.

The State Department said it might make exceptions in individual cases provided the Justice Department agrees.

Such exceptions have been made for some U.S. citizens, including Americans who wanted to visit relatives imprisoned in Red China.—UPI.

HELPED REBELS

Lyon, Dec. 1.

French Police today arrested Blaise de Fury, 23-year-old son of one of the nation's leading Protestants, on charges of having aided a clandestine ring of Algerian nationalist rebels.

The young man, a medical student, is the son of Rev Roland de Fury, Protestant minister of Lyon. Police said the younger de Fury sheltered members of the underground rebel ring in his home.—UPI.

The results of analysis carried out at three different centres showed that in the second half of 1959 there had been relatively little change for these groups from the values recorded during the first half of the year.

The results were given in the latest of a series of reports on Strontium 90 in the human bone.

Strontium 90 is an artificial radioactive isotope dangerous because of its absorption into the bone marrow through contaminated food.—UPI.

Colombo, Dec. 1. Parents moved into some 60 Roman Catholic schools in Western Ceylon today in a bid to prevent the government's take-over of assist-ed schools.

Legislation placing under government control about 2,000 aided schools and colleges became effective today.

There were no immediate reports of incidents in the strongly Catholic west coast region, not least Colombo where parents also organized missionary controlled schools—but government schools and those that were under government authorities were closed for holidays.

The acting Minister of Education, Mr. V. T. G. Karunaratne, hailed the take-over as "the first step in the government's programme."

DEFENCE

All the same, Bess had to go to court. But the magistrates accepted the defense that it was her double, a nasty, snappy little bitch, that committed the crime. So Bess left the court without a stain on her canine character.

Said Mrs. Shepherd: "Bess's troubles started when a man was bitten. He complained to the police that it was Bess. So did the man on the bike."

"It wasn't Bess, it was her double who roams up and down the canal bank that did the biting. She is the exact image of our Bass."

"Somehow or other the puppy, which was shut in the kitchen, managed to turn on two gas taps."

—(London Express Service).

During the demonstration placards were carried condemning the emergency regulations in South Africa, and reported killings in Pondoland. Requests to see the High Commissioner were refused, and police broke up the demonstration, which was several hundred strong.—Reuter.

GUARDS FEAR ROBBERY

London, Dec. 1. Railway guards who yesterday banned mail on fast corridor trains between London and Brighton because of a high risk of robbery, today failed to get full support from colleagues.

After making their protest, most guards were today again accepting mail, but a few would still only take it on slow non-corridor trains which they believe are safer. Three fast trains on this south coast route have fallen prey to daring mailbag robberies in three months. Guards were trussed up in each case. The last raid was on Tuesday night.

The guards say on the fast trains they can be surprised anywhere on the 50-mile journey, and the corridor increases the risk of surprise attack.—China Mail Special.

Waterloo-road reconstruction

Waterloo-road between Portland-street and the waterfront is to be reconstructed following the decking of the open nullah in that stretch of the roadway. The reconstruction includes the provision of a dual carriage-way, each 32 feet wide, between Portland-street and Canton-road where the road then becomes a single carriageway to the waterfront.

Provision is also being made for 14-foot wide footpaths on either side of the dual carriage-way. A central island, six feet wide, will run down the middle of this portion of the road. The single carriageway will be 60 feet wide with footpaths of about ten feet in width on either side.

TAKE THIS MAN, FOR INSTANCE...

PSYCHIATRIST "Worried eyes, but I would say the eyes of a balanced, ambitious type of man."

POLICEMAN "Honest eyes, but they could be shifty. I suppose... I can't read anything in those."

PERSONNEL MANAGER "I could only judge if they were looking right at me."

PSYCHIATRIST "I can never read anything into a man's nose unless it's so big or small or ugly that he's obviously worried about it."

POLICEMAN "Never judge a man by his nose. Some of the reddest noses I know belong to tootstakers."

PERSONNEL MANAGER "A good, firm nose, this. A bit cocky, though."

PSYCHIATRIST "A warm, open-hearted character with intelligence."

POLICEMAN "I would say quick tempered."

PERSONNEL MANAGER "I would say that this was a very honest man. But there is some temper here."

Boldly—a country puts its problems before the world

IN the days when the paint was still fresh in Tokyo's film studios, a young director suddenly found himself under investigation by his studio.

Not that Heinosuke Gosho wasn't one of the really bright talents at the time.

But his employers were cautious men in an industry still hypersensitive to public criticism.

Young Gosho had been showing a dangerous tendency. He had been filming too many love stories.

That was almost 35 years ago. This year Japan's entry at the Cannes Film Festival was a love story that raised eyebrows even among that worldly throng on the Croisette—it was so daring.

But the march of the movies in Japan is like that.

It is a story of startling about-turns, ironical changes of fortune, intense resourcefulness and unceasing zeal to please and to turn a profit.

In short—out-paint Japan leads the world. Over 5,000 features spilt out of Japanese studios last year—over a thousand million tickets were sold at her box-offices.

And this in a land where two hours in five have TV.

In terms of quality, too, Japan is a great Power.

No longer need Tokyo producers take space in the newspapers to apologize when their festival entries come home without a prize. They have carried off nearly 40 different awards since 1951.

Queues

Now even the films made for the home market draw queues around the world to stay.

How she broke into it is a story of her producers' knock of seizing those opportunities that fate presents.

Fate in this case came in the unexpected conjunction of a general and a festival.

the advice of the Italian film representative.

BY ALEXANDER WALKER

For the greatest spur to production was the post-war regime of General MacArthur which encouraged film-makers to look critically at their country and also exposed that country to the West as never before.

At the same time, opinion at home was not entirely pleased. "Coloured exoticism," sniffed the critics.

With Westernisation flooding in, it seemed a good time to launch films with a modern setting that gave them a ready-made appeal in America and Europe.

Thus not till relatively recently have films trickled into Britain which show Japan's film-makers at grips with modern problems in a way as bold as the post-war Italian directors.

The Venice Film Festival of 1961 awarded its premier prize to a Japanese costume film with a feudal setting.

There is Street of Shamo—which turned a harsh and realistic eye on Tokyo's red-light district.

There is Juvenile Pardon, which depicted the "sun tribe" of today's Japan.

This was a set of richly-iridescent scenes. Double, etc.

'Exoticism'

A near flop at home, it had been syndicated at Venetian

I talked about eyes to A Policeman. He said: "I distrust people with narrow eyes. The wider men they are the more I am likely to believe."

THE LIPS according to Mr Penry have a lot to do with it. A man with thin lips is usually firm and decisive. Often suppressing warmer feelings and emotions.

The Personnel Manager I saw said: "I don't go on them. I like to talk to someone with a good, full mouth. Tight mouths and thin lips go too often with a secretive nature."

Important

POLICE at Doncaster are convinced that few people can recognise the face of a man they want to interview from one picture.

To make sure they get the right man they issued five pictures of him—which showed how his face had changed from 1952 until now.

Now just how much can you learn about someone from looking at their face?

According to the noted physiognomy expert Mr Jacques Penry you can tell a person's complete character by a study of their eyes, nose, and mouth. Wrinkles, he says, are another good guide.

Conflicting

Mr Penry's theories were put to the test by me—with a picture of a well-known actor.

As you will see from the specialised face alongside, a Psychiatrist, a Policeman, a Personnel Manager, and Mr Penry—all of them full-time face-watchers—have conflicting views on what sort of man this might be.

Now, according to Mr Penry, if YOUR EYES slope downwards at the corners you are likely to be suave—sometimes at the expense of truth.

WHO IS HE?

London Express Service.

Sir Robert Finney (28), actor of distinction, born Lancashire; currently starring in "Ivy" in London's Cambridge Theatre. Also in "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning" tipped as the next Olivier.

Having an O.K. nose myself—according to Mr Penry—I think we can leave it at that.

Swizzle sticks in seas of champagne—normally that's my type of fishing, but...

TODAY I WISH TO BOAST!

Nairobi. THE warriors or "morans" of Kenya's Masai tribe are usually handsome, often indolent, and frequently homicidal.

The two I've just met were fully armed with eight-foot bloodied spears and dented shields, but they were fortunately non-homicidal.

In fact they looked about the happiest and best adjusted pair of "morans" in the Masai.

They have the job, which is by no means exhausting, of opening the doors to the game of the Mount Kenya Safari Club, greeting the visitors with shaking feathered head-dresses, and smiles as broad as Lake Victoria.

Judging by the opulent standards of the club they are probably also the best-paid pair of "morans" in the Masai.

The first great face-reader was none other than Aristotle. He had altogether fixed opinions on the human proboscis. He said: "A thick, bulbous nose goes with a swinish, insensitive person."

Those with sharp, tipped noses are frascible and easily provoked; while a rounded, large obtuse nose is magnanimous.

"The slender-hooked nose suggests a grasping person, eagle-like."

Having an O.K. nose myself—according to Mr Penry—I think we can leave it at that.

They have chosen a perfect setting for their spending. The club stands in the beautiful wide red-earth country, about 150 miles north of Nairobi and at the foot of Mount Kenya, which looks down from 17,000 feet with cloud-capped majesty.

South Africa simmers, while the Congo glowers, while Kenya shivers uneasily on the black rim of independence.

Holden and his partners are pouring money into their club as though they believed Stanley Livingstone and I was well under the Colonial sun.

had just been frightened by a lion.

A charter plane flew me 140 miles further north from Mount Kenya into the rugged country of the Northern Frontier district stretching to the Abyssinian frontier.

I landed at a fishing camp on the shores of Lake Rudolph, which is surrounded by extinct volcanoes and cliffs of black and grey hardened lava.

It could be a setting for a lunar drama—errie, windswept, not of this world.

Only a few flat-topped acacia trees have pushed up through the rocky soil, looking like umbrellas stuck in a surrealistic map.

But, miraculously, a natural spring, from the mountains nourishes an oasis of palm trees and provides the site for the camp.

My "suite" was a bare thatched hut or boma, with a narrow bed and an army of ants on the bare floors as fellow guests.

"No, we are not worried about the political future. The club has a multi-racial policy. No one will be barred because of colour."

Ordinary members from America pay 1,000 dollars (£367) a year and the locals get in for £25.

The charter list is a mixed bag, highly impressive. Here is a section: Prince Bernhard, the Duke of Manchester, the Earl of Portsmouth, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Lord Delamere, Lily Pons, U.S. Treasury Ivy Priest, General Lemay and Joan Crawford (who, as far as I know does not hunt big game).

Selby and Holberg Safaris Ltd, who own the camp, may be setting an interest to the three millionaires of Mount Kenya who want a place to send members eager for a few days of rough contrast.

I wish to boast that the fish I caught were considered big ones—a 100lb. and a 65lb. Nile perch.

The dancers, dressed in straw kilts, banged drums, chanted, and blew police whistles as they gyrated.

They speak frankly about sex. They are harsh and realistic.

EVERY big studio that is left in Hollywood has at least a couple of cowboy townships standing year in, year out, on its back lot.

But the scale of film making in Japan means that studios can import at almost any time over 60 permanent replicas of St Tropez set.

Some two-thirds of the films now flooding out of Japan's studios—especially those of the Shochiku Company—are about contemporary life.

They speak frankly about sex relationships—like the love affair between the young girl dictated to dark glasses and fast speedboats who had sprouted overnight in Japan following the publication of a novel that set the fashion—much as Franoise Sagan's novels created the St Tropez set.

It has several "firsts" to its credit. Japan's first "talkie" made in 1931 and entitled "The Neighbour's Wife and My Wife." And Japan's first colour film, "Carmen Comes Home," in 1951.

Typical of the thoroughness of Japanese studios, Shochiku poses over a factory for manufacturing the spare parts for imported equipment.

In addition to owning cinemas and making pictures, the company presents Kabuki—Japan's classical drama—and the puppet theatre known as Bunraku.

It also runs the world's largest troupe of dancing girls, over 300 of them.

Like all the big Japanese companies, Shochiku's production falls sharply into picture drama and modern subjects.

The two studios are equally distinct.

The one at Kyoto is located in the midst of Buddhist temples, Shinto shrines, gardens, rivers and hills—an ideal setting for period films.

The other studio, on the outskirts of the capital, is known as the largest in the Orient.

Its modern subjects cover a surprising range, from a projected four-hour version of a six-volume novel to be made in three parts—to a comedy about a Japanese rugby team.

Romantic stories are the most numerous and successful, as in almost every other film studio in the world. And here, too, Shochiku can claim to be a notable pioneer.

Until it went into production men had played female roles on the screen, as in the Kabuki.

Shochiku was the first Japanese company to put women into films.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): A financial problem can be solved successfully if you are prepared to listen to a person who has proved his ability to deal with such matters.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): A romantic affair has little chance of ripening into a union unless you are both ready to make allowances for each other's faults.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If things seem unusually upsetting today, don't give way to irritability, but rely on your good sense to see you through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 18): On being asked to settle a dispute between friends, approach the problem unmotivatedly and without prejudice.

GEMINI (May 19-June 21): A generous act on your part may bring a quite unexpected reward.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): A person whose opinion matters will be impressed by your ability and common sense, and may be very helpful in furthering your ambitions.

The "Isn't-she-wonderful mother" is the woman you can't avoid meeting these days.

You may have had six children and reared them all to perfection, but you won't cut much ice if this "Wonderful" is around.

For this is the young mother who holds down an important job, and keeps it down right up to the minute she enters the hospital.

Three weeks later she's back at the office, the salon, or the boardroom.

"Isn't she wonderful," cry the friends and relations.

EFFICIENT

AND you can't deny it, however sour the grapes, because the baby is always popped into expert hands, the home always ticks along more efficiently.

And because these women are among the few who find time to keep up their exercise and get their hair set they look like the face it—wonderful this.

"How do you do it?" is the question most frequently put by these wonderful Mums.

"I spent two weeks in hospital at the time and had all sorts of welding orders on hand. I was carried off to the clinic having just completed the last one, and was back for the next batch in three weeks."

"I had moved into a new salon at the time and had all sorts of welding orders on hand. I was carried off to the clinic having just completed the last one, and was back for the next batch in three weeks."

"I felt terrible the whole time, but I had to have a lot of work done just sitting at home fretting about the business."

"I went against the doctor's advice in going back so soon and unfortunately they were right. I was ill. But apart from taking things easier afterwards I would do it the same way if I had another baby."

YOU would not be wrong in saying that Fleur Cowles was one of the most famous hostesses in London—and yet the word hostess conjures up a slightly Edwardian or pre-war atmosphere of formal dinner parties and elaborate country house entertainment.

I asked her if, when she met her guests, she tried to adapt herself to the personality of each one.

"No," she replied. "I hope I have proven it never change. I am always Fleur Cowles. I don't think there is any need to put on a calculated front—even as a gesture. I am what I am and that is that."

She went on to explain that as far as she was concerned it made the variety of guests that made the best recipe.

I ASKED her if she deliberately introduced into a party someone who was bound to have a big effect—for good or bad.

"No," she replied. "I don't like the pre-arranged explosion. I'm much too natural. I think if the group is, cosy enough there will soon be enough thoughts to light up the firm."

"You see," she went on, "I have got a single secret of success—except to have one—" "What is important is I love my home. I can't think of anything more exciting and pleasant than a home and friends. I'd rather have them here."

No change

I WANTED first to find out what she felt was the way a woman should present herself to life.

"I asked her if, when she met her guests, she tried to adapt herself to the personality of each one.

"Well," came the answer, "you can do it on a personal level. You can bring along a young painter or young sculptor and see how he gets on with established people. You can put a painting on a chair and have the painter there and that can do wonders for him to hear unwitting praise."

She said that they were all people who, without deliberate trying to bring silence to almost any gathering of people.

"Let's take," I asked, "that nice again. How would you tell her to be a success in entertaining?"

"The essential thing," she replied, "is warmth. You have to be unselfish and warm."

I was interested in the reply because that is exactly what I should say has made Fleur that's about the best you can do. The trouble is that's what you must power as a hostess."

She said that they were all people who, without deliberate trying to bring silence to almost any gathering of people.

Of course, there are other methods. But Fleur Cowles is the classic example of success through warmth and sincerity.

Probably they are the supreme qualities of a woman—if she has those in abundance there is scarcely a need for the art of self-presentation.

Except experience.

Cocktails

THEN I asked her: "Do you think cocktail parties are useful or not?"

"No, I don't if you mean by fairly big ones. I'd rather be dead than go to one. I don't like the atmosphere of them. I don't like crowds. The conversation is fragmentary and never gets anywhere."

"But, supposing you had a young niece who was starting to go to parties, what would you tell her to do?"

"I should tell her that there is always one marvellous person in any party and to find him or her. It gives you a sense of security when you don't scatter your thoughts. If you develop conversation with one person

"I don't care whether I get presents or not," she said to herself, as she sat by the window of her beautiful room in her even more beautiful private house, "but what I do care about—is whether my friends flowers, especially roses with ivy leaves and fern."

HERE it was Miss Gloria Doll's birthday. The day was nearly over and Gloria had not received a single birthday present!

"Not that it bothered her much."

"I don't care whether I get presents or not," she said to herself, as she sat by the window of her beautiful room in her even more beautiful private house, "but what I do care about—is whether my friends flowers, especially roses with ivy leaves and fern."

"I'd like to give her a silver belt," said Mary-Jane, the Rag Doll.

"I'd like to give her a pair of red slippers," said Mr Punch's wife Judy.

And Hiaawatha, the Small-Sized Wooden Indian, who usually only grunted, stopped wondering long enough to say, "I'd like to give my friend Gloria a piece of the rainbow to jump rope with!"

Nobody in the whole room thought they could ever find any of the presents they wished to give Gloria for her birthday — and especially not the piece of the rainbow to use as a jumping rope.

At that moment, along came Mr Merlin, looking at the wooden Indian, "what was that you wanted to give to Gloria?"

Most Magnificent Magician

Today he really and truly proved himself not only to be a Magnificent Magician but the most magnificent and the happiest making Magician that ever took a rabbit out of a hat or put one back again!

Meanwhile, in the Playroom, all of Gloria's friends were sitting and wondering and standing up and wondering and walking around and wondering and lying on the floor and wondering and looking up at the ceiling and wondering and looking at each other and wondering.

"We all want to give Gloria a birthday present but we don't know how to get them," Harold said to Mr Merlin. Then all told him what presents they wanted to give her.

"It's easy," said Mr Merlin.

"Easy as falling off a slippery log," said Mr Merlin.

He mumbled some magic words.

Gloria Doll had the most wonderful birthday party she had ever had in her whole life. Everyone gave her a present and wished her happiness.

And what could be better than that?

Rupert and the Purple Star

Rupert starts at the curious thing on the rough floor. Is it a starfish? He says, "I've never heard of a purple starfish. He begins to touch it. "It's not like the sound of those men," breathes Rupert. "Let's go." And, as quietly as they can, they climb back towards the gap in the cliff.

There's someone coming!" he whispers urgently. "They pause.

"It would be better," he said, "if we wished her a happy birthday and gave her a present at the same time."

"All we're doing right now," said General Tin gloomily, "is wishing we could get her some presents! But wishing isn't going to help us get them."

"I'd like to give her a bunch of flowers," said Teddy, the Stuffed Bear. "Gloria loves and listen and, sure enough, there are gruff voices and the noise of footsteps approaching on the cliff.

ONE DISH ENTERTAINING

THE CASSEROLE

THE least expensive cuts can be used in casseroles—and they are often of a sweeter flavour—but, what with bones and possible excessive fat, the actual meat will certainly be less than if more highly priced ones are used.

Still, in this dish, scrab and neck or breast of lamb will be just as good as cutlets and will cost very much less.

CASSEROLE OF LAMB

(For 7 to 8 servings)

Suck overnight 1 lb haricot or the slightly larger white beans in plenty of water, stirring from off-chill. Drain, wash and rinse, then turn them into a large pot and cover them with cold water.

Bring slowly to the boil, cover and simmer gently until a bean can be bitten through without any hardness being encountered.

This preliminary cooking of the beans can be carried out at the time.

For the main cooking, cut into serving pieces two sprigs of lamb and the chops which come with them or these boned steaks of lamb. Cut off as much fat as possible and render it down.

Dust the pieces of lamb with seasoned flour and fry them oil over a pale gold. Or, if preferred, use butter and a dessert-spoon of olive oil to prevent it burning. Remove the meat and lightly fry in the fat 1 lb. of whole tiny onions.

Tie in a piece of muslin a small sprig of rosemary, a pinch of marjoram, a small bay leaf, two cloves, a sprig of thyme, a few leaves of celery and several juniper berries, holding a long end of string. Place it in a large casserole with the string overhanging the rim.

Remove the bag of herbs by its attached string and serve the dish.

Note.—If there is a glass of dry white wine in hand, add it with the bean stock.

By TERRY O'CONNOR

LONDON, Oxford University spotlighted their weakness in the front row last week when they announced their team to meet Cambridge at Twickenham on December 6. They have left a vacancy for a prop forward.

NOT SO BIG

Pack problems have troubled Oxford all season, and they were badly beaten in the tight and line-out against Harlequins at Twickenham recently.

This accounted for their 11-3 defeat.

Two Cambridge men, Gordon Waddell and Vic Harding, rested because of minor injuries from the match against Blackheath and watched their rivals.

Due to the absence of Waddell, Cambridge captain Ken Scotland took over at fly-half and scored one of his team's 14-10 victory over Blackheath.

Scotland still hopes to play at full-back against Oxford, but this depends on Wade's fitness.

Patterson's wife sues beauty parlour for alleged discrimination

MINEOLA, Dec. 1.

Heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson's

$3,000 damage suit against a Rockville Centre, New York, beauty parlour has been thrown out of court. However, a similar $500 suit by his wife was allowed to stand.

Both cases were directed against the Mrs. Max Salom

Patterson was discriminated appointment because she is a

Circuit Judge Bernard Tomson ruled yesterday that under State Laws only the person discriminated against may seek redress. Patterson had asked damages because he said he also suffered "great humiliation and shame."

BABOOK AND CARRIE WILL BE LOGICAL CHOICES FOR DAY'S TOP TWO EVENTS

The Second day of the Hongkong Jockey Club Fourth Race Meeting concludes tomorrow with a programme of eight interesting events.

The first saddling bell will be rung at 1.30 p.m., and the first race will start at 2.00 p.m.

out should go all out here to redeem himself.

Lucky Chap (Alex Lam) and Splendid (H. C. Pilk) are both in form and either of them is able to spring out here.

Nego Boy (Andrew Lam) is good to follow as an outsider.

FIRST RACE

Brighton Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

In this Novice' race the following should be prominent: Tamerlane (Chun Kit) and Twin Luck (S. W. H. Ho). Tamerlane is good over this distance and it should certainly be well backed.

Twin Luck should claim the second position.

Gieha with Michel up, could be the one to upset.

SECOND RACE

Brighton Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

Babook (Chun Kit) is the logical choice for this mile event, but Top Speed (Ringo Lam) will be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Halmark (H. C. Pilk) may prove dangerous.

American Carrot (Lai Chun-fu) though not running over its favourite distance, is a pretty good each-way investment.

THIRD RACE

Brighton Handicap (Second Section): One Mile.

Miss Reading (P. Plumby) has been penalised by 7 lbs. is confident of doing well to repeat her feat achieved at the last time.

FOURTH RACE

Leopardstown Handicap (Second Section): From 1½ Miles.

First of all we have Carrie (Alex Lam) to consider as the pony is well suited to this distance and, remembering the way it ran and came in third in the Kwangtung Handicap at the last meeting over 1½ miles, many will no doubt rely on it tomorrow when making their bets.

Personally, I think Carrie should win, but Norse King (Alain Chan) which is galloping well during morning training, may possibly extend the above finish.

FIFTH RACE

Folkestone Handicap (First Section): One Mile.

Babook (Chun Kit) is the logical choice for this mile event, but Top Speed (Ringo Lam) will fight out the issue.

EIGHTH RACE

Folkestone Handicap (Third Section): One Mile.

This race is the last race of the Fourth meeting and will be contested by Class 3 horses.

Hippoma (Alex Lam) is in fine form and should fight to the last inch for the premier honours.

Renown (Sally Liu) will run her very close and Native Prince (H. K. Hung) could be near too.

Cut this out and take it to the races

tomorrow for your guidance

Starters, Weights And Riders

Starters, weights and riders for tomorrow's Happy Valley race meeting are given below. This list is based on the official list issued by the Hongkong Jockey Club. As an additional guide to form, the placings of the ponies in their last three starts will be found on the left hand side of their names.

OXO TOPS LIST OF 'CHASERS FOR NATIONAL HUNT SEASON

London.
National Hunt racing greatly enlivened the final dismal weeks of the flat season. Already, there have been fine performances by Saffron Tartan, Oxo, Mr What, Blessington Esquire and several young hurdlers. One way to get the most out of jumping is to follow a dozen of the better-class horses throughout the season.

Oxo heads my list of chasers to follow. After a gallant display under 12st. 7lb. in the Beecher Chase at Liverpool, his chance of winning another Grand National must be really bright.

Completely recovered from his leg injury, Oxo has quit unruled by a first-fence blunder, and went on to give his lightly-weighted rivals a jumping lesson. He would certainly have won with the benefit of a few more race.

OUT OF TOWN.—The Queen Mother has made a great start to the season, and this novice chaser will soon add to her winners. He was kept to hunting last season after failing in a chase, but showed at Hurst Park that his confidence is fully restored.

Another royal chaser, Hall's HOPE, was kept to the smaller jumps last season, winning three times in seven starts in good company.

Grand effort

It was a grand effort against Blessington Esquire over fences at Newbury. He did not jump cleanly as some others, but leapt strongly. When he has learned a little more, he will win good prizes, and should stay three miles.

EL GRIEGO II.—This is one for sharp tracks like Lingfield, Fontwell and Windsor. He was cleverly placed to win four times last season, and goes well in mud.

I am confident that trainer Douglas Marks will find the right opportunities for him.

ROCK'S CROSS two seasons ago? Barely out of the novice stage, he won five times in seven starts, but was off racing for most of last season because of injury.

Close third

Neville Crump has got Rock's Cross back to form again. He is now nine years of age.

It is not difficult to foresee a brilliant career for BLESSINGTON ESQUIRE. He has the make and shape of a champion, as he showed at Newbury and

DOUAL, 6 yrs. (Mr. W. G. Brabin), Rimell.

GLASWEGIAN, 3 yrs. (Mr. W. H. Clifton), Stephenson.
HALL'S HOPE, 6 yrs. (Mrs. J. Mildmay-White), Caralek.
LONG STORY, 7 yrs. (Mr. J. E. King), Todd.

again at Cheltenham last week. He may not be sufficiently experienced by next March to take on the best in the Gold Cup, but he has time on his side.

Hunting my young hurdlers to follow is DOUAL. A moderate novice and placed only once in five outings last winter, he has made remarkable progress to win five of six starts this season.

SUPER FLASH.—A half-brother to last season's champion. Another Flash this five-year-old has been given plenty of time to develop.

On two or three occasions last winter, he showed promise of better things to come. His close third to Fleckley Lass at Hurst Park was further proof.

A three year old who impressed me at Birmingham was GLASWEGIAN. He hurdles like an old hand, and with a fast-paced race, he may have beaten Fier Chimiste, who out-paced him on the flat.

In his only other race over timber, Glaswegian was runner-up to Scottish Final at Huntingdon, and the winner scored again next time out.

MOZIE LAW.—This is another I can thoroughly recommend from the Neville Crump stables. At Liverpool recently, Mozie Law, owned by the Duke of Roxburghe, looked big and well.

Although never a factor in the event won by Branca Dorio, he ran well enough to show that he will soon be successful.

ROSOLIO, a French-bred four-year-old and winner of the flat in France, ran third to Bold Ruler at Newbury proving that he is now fully acclimatised.

J. C. Waugh, who does not have many jumpers in his stable, usually has at least one reliable performer Rosolio certainly comes into that category.

LONG STORY: Three long-distance hurdlers came his way this month. His weights in two races later this month indicate that the handicappers have made due note of his improvement, yet Long Story stays so well that he may defy their assessments. — London Express Service.

IN HONOUR OF A GREAT FIGHTER

The greatest fist-power ever assembled in Britain met last week at a dinner of the National Sporting Club in London in honour of one of their 'greatest fists'—Georges Carpenter, former light-heavyweight champion of the world.

Carpenter, a young-looking 38, came face to face with his old opponent 'Bomber' Wells, the man he beat twice in one year—1912. Together, they watched a film of their training bouts. Later Carpenter, in his burly voice and halting English, talked of the fights that stand out in his memory to an audience of 300 guests.

There was laughter as Carpenter, wearing scarlet boxing gloves in his evening suit, threw mock punches at his old opponent Wells to punctuate his speech. It included recollections of the night when he lost to heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey in 1921.

The party was later joined by Ted ('Kid') Lewis, now in his seventies, who had once given Carpenter one of the most controversial fights in his career. He was greeted by Carpenter with a hug and was among the many vanquished who cheered when Carpenter had made his speech.

Selection of Pakistan Test team delayed

Bentley, Dec. 1.
A doubt about the fitness of Hanif Mohammad, their leading batsman, has caused Pakistan to delay selection of the team for the first Test against India starting at the Brabourne Stadium here tomorrow.

Hanif practised at the nets this morning and later three doctors examined his infected big right toe. They said that he was still slightly sensitive to pain, but could play if he did not feel much discomfort overnight.

A sellout crowd of 30,000 will watch the game, the Clevagh Test between the two countries. India have won two, Pakistan one, and the rest have been drawn. China Mail Special.

Three needle softball matches this weekend

By OLLY VAS

The results of their matches at King's Park this week will be of importance to the Indians and Giants in the Junior division and also to the four teams engaged in Little League baseball competition for there are three needle games on the schedule.

If the Cubs beat the Lions when they meet on Saturday at 2.00 pm they are in with a chance to force a four-way tie in the Little League provided that they score a double by downing the Giants a week from now and if the latter should in turn account for the Rebels.

It is an intriguing situation for the mathematically-minded ball fan for there are only three more baseball games to be played off before this 'spring training' baseball comes to an end in early December.

The statistics show that the Lions have already beaten the Cubs once before, to the tune of 8 runs to 2, but as the youngsters put their hearts and souls into every encounter one can never rule out the possibility of upsets. The Lions are pre-game favourites.

The Indians play the first game of a weekend double-header against the Rebels, New Asia, in a Junior division softball match immediately afterwards, at 3.30 pm. An easy victory is forecast for Alec Braga's boys but New Asia will be trying very hard, as they always do, to keep the score down to a reasonable level.

Crucial match

The Indians cannot afford to drop any more games and their match on the next day will be a crucial one for them.

The Little League baseballers get off to an early start on Sunday morning at 8.30 when the Rebels cross bats with the Giants. Both sides have lost two to date and there will be much interest shown in this game. Whatever the outcome fans can expect to see a highly entertaining contest.

At 11 am the ladies make return to the softball scene.

The unbeaten SCAA nine have not had an outing since crushing the Toreros 16-0 a few weeks ago. They meet Robert Silva's Cheyennes who have lost the only game they have played so far, to the SCAA 'B' side. It is only logical to assume that the defending champion will not be duly extended by the Cheyennes. A resurgence of interest in indoor softball is noticeable and it is hoped that this interest will be sustained by both spectators and players.

It is only evident that calls of duty make it impossible for the U.S. Navy to turn out the same team regularly in the Senior division for the standard of play of the team from the current station ship the "Montrose" leaves little to the imagination.

The sailors come up against the winless Pandas, captained by Y. S. Liang, at 1.30 pm.

The Chinese boys are but a shadow of the well-known Pandas of yesteryear and they must win this match to regain

WHEN SURTEES RETIRES—WHO NEXT?

WILL John Surtees, the 25-year-old holder of seven motorcycle world championships, retire from the sport next season?

Says Surtees: "It is by no means certain that I shall compete in next season's classics. Car racing? Well, I'm certainly interested. But I also have my own business to attend to."

Is there another English motor-cycle challenger capable of succeeding Surtees? Yes, the youngest prospect in the country—20-year-old millionaire motorcyclist Mike Hallwood.

The Hongkong Rotary Club contributed its quota towards making the public conscious of the necessity for learning how to protect themselves from the dangers of gas warfare, when they invited Engineer Commander H. J. White to give a broadcast talk on this subject at their luncheon in the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden yesterday. The speaker described in detail the effects of the more common gases and the treatment necessary, and drew a vivid picture of a modern city population withdrawing in public refuge buildings on the approach of a gas attack.

A CONTRAST AT NIGHT

The contrast of life in Hongkong is here with the well-dressed couple and the old woman whose home is the street. The woman walks in furs while the aged one sleeps in a straw mat. The plight of thousands like her is one of this Colony's most pressing problems.

Dangerous drugs charge

Four men were charged with manufacturing dangerous drugs this morning before Mr D. Cons of Central Court. They were Cheung Muk-po, 47, Lam Mow, 34, Lam Leung-chi, 38 and Yiu Kon, 32.

Cheung, Muk-po and Lam, containing heroin, morphine salt, were additionally charged with possession of dangerous drugs and Lam Cheung-chi with permitting premises to be used for the manufacturing of dangerous drugs.

Yiu Kon offered $20,000 bail and the other three defendants remanded seven days jail custody for further inquiries. Detective Sub-Inspector R. L. Redpath is in charge of the case.

The police alleged that some time between October and November the four defendants at No 75 Deep Water Bay-road manufactured dangerous drugs. Cheung, Muk-po and Lam Mow were alleged to have been in possession of solutions

REPLY TO ROCHDALE

Mr T. Y. Wong, Chairman of the Hongkong Spinners Association, this morning released this reply to Lord Rochdale's statement yesterday on the ceiling agreement with Lancashire:

The position of local cotton industry on the quota question was made amply clear in the recent joint statement. Just as Lord Rochdale wished to give it careful study upon his return to Manchester, so we would wish to carefully study his letter published this morning.

"But I would observe that in referring to our premises he had not directly commented on the most important one, and that is, the original and basic understanding was only for a breathing space, and the spirit of this understanding should be held inviolate."

Win appeal but not discharged

Mian Mohamad and Abdullah Rafique appealed against a 2½-year prison sentence on charges of uttering forged banknotes and their conviction and sentences were quashed at Full Court today.

COULDN'T AFFORD COUNSEL, SHE SAYS

A Chinese woman herbalist, Tse Wai-lan, who had been sentenced to three years in the Criminal Sessions on two charges of abortion, told the Full Court this morning that she had been unable to raise money to obtain the services of a counsel in her appeal against the conviction.

She said she was also unable to secure free services of counsel and asked the Court for an adjournment so that she could study the record of the trial to prepare for her appeal.

The Full Court granted her an adjournment for three weeks. The Acting Chief Justice, Mr Justice C. W. Reece, who presided in the Full Court, added, "I hope in the meantime you will be able to get assistance of counsel."

Sitting with Mr Justice Reece was Mr Justice W. A. Blair-Kerr.

Mong Kok drainage system

The existing stormwater drainage system in the Mong Kok area of Kowloon is becoming greatly overloaded owing to the rapid re-development that is taking place in the district.

During the summer rains, the drainage system could not cope with the heavy flow of water and flooding resulted in some places.

To prevent flooding of this nature, the Public Works Department will construct new stormwater culverts in Sai Yeeto-street and Mong Kok-road to carry the flow for discharge into the Mong Kok nullah.

Three separate blocks of flats for the accommodation of 90 families will be erected. The blocks will be of six, seven, and ten storeys in height. Two of the blocks will have car ports on the ground floor.
